I Have been desired to publish the few following Rules, relating to the Methods of matching and fighting of Cocks in London, said to have been in Practice there, ever since the Time of King Charles the Second.

Which Methods in fighting of a Main are,

To begin the same by fighting the lightest Pair of the Cocks, (which fall in Match) first, proceeding succinctly upward, to the end; that every lighter Pair, may fight earlier than those which are heavier, and every heavier Pair, later than those which are lighter, and consequently that the largest of all may fight last.

In matching (with relation to the Battles) 'tis a Rule always in London,

That after the Cocks for the Main are weighed, and the Match-Bills are compared,

That every Pair of Dead, or equal Weight, are separated, and fight against others, provided that it appears, that the Main can be enlarged, by adding thereto, either one Battle or more thereby.

ADVERTISEMENT.

WHEREAS it was advertised in the past Season, that on the second Day of September last, a Prize consisting of fifty Guineas, would be run for at Litchfield.

And also, that (on the twelfth of the same Month) a Prize consisting of seventy Guineas, would be run for at Burford.

This is to represent, That I have received authentick Advice, that on the said second of September, there was no Prize of fifty Guineas Value run for at Litchfield.

And that the Prize run for on the twelfth Ditto at Burford was no more than fifty Pounds Sterling.

But the said above Advice, I did not receive, till too late, to prevent the Errors mention'd (relating to the said two Places) in the foregoing Parts of this Look.

I Am now also certain, That his Grace the Duke of Cleveland, and Sir Edward Blacket, Bart. have articled to shew thirty one Cocks on each Side, for ten Guineas a Battle, and two hundred the Main, and ten a Side for Byes, for five Guineas a Battle, at Newcastle upon Tyne, to begin fighting on the Monday of the Race Week, in the following Season 1748.
